

MyQAGenerator.ai

Question	Answer
_____ is fed into the first layer of a neural network, with each node making a decision, and then passing that information onto multiple nodes in the next layer.	Data
Artificial intelligence is an area of computer science concerned with building computers and machines that can reason, learn, and act in a way resembling human intelligence, or systems that involve data whose scale exceeds what humans can analyze.	area computer science
Training models with more than three layers are referred to as “deep neural networks” or “deep _____.” Some modern neural networks have hundreds or thousands of layers.	learning